The President Preparing a Message on Tennessee Affairs.

Special Despatch to The Chicago Tribune.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The President is preparing a message upon Tennessee affairs, which it is said he will send in on a day or so. It is based upon a formal call made by Governor Senter for military aid. The Governor sets forth in his communication to the President that the last Legislature deprived him of all power to protect citizens of the State, and that in consequence intolerable disorder, bordering on insurrection, prevails in various counties. He therefore asks the President to adopt steps to aid him in maintaining order. The President will send this request to Congress, with his views upon the general subject. His message will be referred to the Reconstruction Committee in the House. In expectation of this message and accompanying papers, General Butler has prepared a resolution embodying his views of the proper manner of meeting the case.

SENATOR REVELS.

The expected speech of Senator Revels drew a great concourse of people to the Senate wing to-day, although the hour, 11 o'clock, was early for the time he spoke, quite a large delegation of members were on the floor of the Senate. The galleries were filled with a fashionable audience and one of the most respectable character. Revels was the first to speak. He read from manuscript, and in a low tone of voice. The Ministry of the Treasury.

The appointment by the President of Mr. Richardson, of Illinois, to be Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, is a fitting recognition of the services rendered by that gentleman to the Republican party during the campaign of 1868. Mr. Richardson was Chairman of the Republican State Committee, and conducted the campaign with great ability and success. He is a man of excellent judgment, and will make a valuable officer. He has been a resident of Illinois for many years, and is well known to all Illinois politicians. His appointment will be received with general satisfaction throughout the State.

The appointment of Mr. Richardson will be followed by the appointment of Mr. Boutwell to be Secretary of the Treasury. Mr. Boutwell is a man of ability, and will make a good Secretary. He is a practical financier, and will bring to the Treasury Department a knowledge of the wants of the country, and of the means of supplying them. He is a man of great industry, and will not be overworked by the duties of his office. He is a man of unquestioned integrity, and will be a safe depository of the public funds. He is a man of positive character, and will not be controlled by the clerks in the Department. He will be a good Secretary, and will make a record which will be creditable to himself and to the country.

The appointment of Mr. Richardson and Mr. Boutwell will be received with general satisfaction by the people. The Treasury Department will be in safe hands, and the business of the country will not suffer from any lack of confidence in the Administration.

MORE AGGRIEVATIONS.

The Secretary of the Treasury, on the 4th of March, communicated to Congress a report from the Superintendent Assistant of the Public Works, showing the amount of money expended by the Government in the improvement of the Illinois River, and the amount of tolls collected on the same. The report shows that the Government has expended $1,000,000 in the improvement of the river, and has collected $120,000 in tolls. The Secretary of the Treasury, in his report, says that the Government has been unable to collect the tolls, because the Illinois River Improvement Company refuses to pay them. The Secretary

Judge BRADWELL, in taking the chair, said: I suppose every person present knows the object for which the meeting was called. Reports have been circulated as wholly untrue and without foundation. The statements go so far as to say that a Sheriff who has presented to the Board of Supervisors his estimate with respect to the safety of this building, which he considers unsafe for the purposes for which it is now occupied, has been removed from office. Such statements are
